We are available to answer your questions and hear your concerns.

The first principle of Unitarian Universalism is to covenant to affirm and promote the inherent worth and dignity of every person. We believe that this principle impels us to protect the privacy of visitors.

Personal Information

Our site collects personal information from our visitors only on a voluntary basis. Personal information may include name and email address. We do not require this information to obtain access to any part of our site. We do not sell or rent this personal information to other organizations.

The personal information we collect is only used by us to process a request that has been placed by the visitor. We never sell your email address, and if you voluntarily give it to us, we will strive to use it only for what it was intended. If we share it, it would only be to another person in our congregation who has the information you desire.

Statistical Information Collected

We collect information on the browsing habits of users and the companies that provide that service also have access to that information. This site collects information using cookies and JavaScript, so if they are enabled in your browser, information can be collected, such as your browser type, operating system, IP address, and country. This information is only used for statistical purposes and cannot identify you as an individual.

Information Accuracy

We make every effort to ensure that the information presented is correct and accurate. If inaccuracies occur, we will make every effort to correct them in a timely manner. To report any web site inaccuracies or for questions about our Privacy Policy please email us at info@2uomaha.org.
